The fourteenth edition of the HTMLles festival is almost here! The first series of events will take place online from November 6 to December 2 2020. The second series will be IRL in Spring 2021

Composed of speculative discussions, interactive workshops, and a selection of contemplative video and Web works, the online programming of the festival is multiform. This Slow Tech edition brings together artists, researchers, activists and designers around issues related to the environment, alternative temporalities and interactions.
